STREETLIGHT UK Ethos

We are a charity inspired by Christian values that are foundational to our work. These values are core to our organisational culture and shape our working practices and service delivery.

This means:

- Compassion motivates us, and we seek to serve people who are often marginalised and misunderstood by society to the best of our ability recognising the inherent value of each individual we encounter. Jesus showed this humility and conviction throughout His life, and we continue to be inspired and invigorated by His example and message.
- Whilst these are our organisation's core beliefs, we will never look to impose them on anyone.
- We are committed to social justice and oppose all forms of discriminatory practice.
- By offering support, we seek to provide options and increase an individual's capability to make positive decisions.

Anyone looking to join StreetlightUK teams, either as staff or in a voluntary capacity, must respect this ethos and will be expected to work within this framework to assist the charity towards achieving our vision of exposing and ending sexual violence and exploitation of women.

At StreetlightUK, we come into contact with groups of individuals from various perspectives on prostitution/selling sex. We recognise that the routes into prostitution and women's experiences of the sex industry vary. Still, we view prostitution as a form of 'violence against women and girls' (VAWG) due to the harm we have found to be inherent.
